

2015 FCAME Mortuary Price Survey

This survey of funeral establishments in Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia was conducted over the past year by the Funeral Consumers Alliance of Maryland and Environs (FCAME). The prices quoted in this survey have been taken from the General Price List (GPL), obtained between September 2014 and March 2015, for each funeral establishment listed, or from information obtained from telephone inquiries of the establishments which did not send us their complete price list. It should be noted that these prices are subject to revision at any time and may have changed since our latest information. It is prudent to call and confirm actual prices at the time of need, as well as the exact services provided for each charge, as they vary from one establishment to another.

Inclusion in this survey does not constitute any endorsement by the FCAME. Establishments not listed either did not provide us with information about their prices, or we did not know about them.

- See the notes at the bottom of the survey table to learn exactly how this survey was conducted and what the terms “direct cremation” and “immediate burial” in the context of this survey mean.
- The prices given for direct cremation are the least expensive option for direct cremation and DO NOT INCLUDE a cremation container (in most cases) or an urn. See the explanatory notes for direct cremation below. They DO include the crematory fee to the best of our knowledge unless otherwise noted below.
- The prices given for immediate burial are the least expensive option and DO NOT INCLUDE caskets, vaults, burial plots, costs associated with opening and closing a grave, monuments, or services of any kind, except as noted.
- Numbers in parentheses refer to footnotes containing additional information which appear after the survey table. Check the footnotes for a given listing before comparing prices.

Explanatory Footnotes

(SCI) Owned by Service Corporation International, a large national chain of funeral homes and cemeteries.

- (1) Does not include the crematory fee – either stated on the GPL or confirmed by phone.
- (2) The GPL does not state whether the crematory fee is included or not – you should call to find out.
- (3) May include a simple graveside service – either stated on the GPL or confirmed by phone.
- (4) Additional transport fee added for transportation east of the Bay Bridge, north of the Susquehanna River, or west of Hagerstown. The service uses a free-standing crematory in Woodbine, MD but usually meets with families at their home. This price includes $15 for a minimum cremation container (cardboard).
- (5) Additional transportation fees for travel more than 50 miles from the free-standing crematory in Woodbine, MD. Arrangements are made at the place of death or the family’s home or over the phone. Minimum cremation container included. There is an additional fee of $450 if the death occurs in DC or VA.
- (6) This business is related to and across the street from MacNabb Funeral Home (listed under Catonsville). It encourages people to preplan and sign up as “members” for $15 in advance, for which they are issued a membership card identifying The Cremation Society as their provider of choice. Members may prepay for cremation at a slight discount from the usual fee (currently $1045 vs. the usual fee of $1060), but additional cost would be incurred if the death took place outside the local area.
- (7) This price does not include ritual Taharah (washing of the body) but it is available for an additional fee.
- (8) This funeral establishment has offered to perform a direct cremation for $750 for those who find him with our price list. The FCAME did not solicit this offer, nor did it solicit offers from any other establishment.
- (9) This price includes $15 for a minimum alternative cremation container (cardboard).

Survey Methodology

In early 2014, letters were sent to each licensed funeral establishment we could identify in Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia requesting its general price list (GPL). We obtained lists of funeral providers from the Maryland Board of Morticians and Funeral Directors as well as the District of Columbia Board of Funeral Directors. Some establishments in the District of Columbia were identified from the phone book in addition to those obtained from the DC Board. Funeral establishments in Delaware were identified using the internet and local contacts because we were unable to obtain a list of funeral establishments from the DE Board of Funeral Service. Volunteers phoned or visited many funeral homes that did not respond to the initial letter. However, given the large area the FCAME covers, it was not possible to visit or even phone every establishment that failed to send a GPL. A number of funeral establishments contacted by phone after they did not respond to our letter either did not return our phone call(s), or agreed to fax or mail us their GPL, but then failed to do so. We list only those establishments for which we were able to obtain an actual GPL or get specific information over the phone.

The information provided here represents a good faith effort to obtain accurate prices and information. However, it should not be relied upon entirely, as prices are subject to change at any time, and the information included in a GPL is not always complete. In many cases, information from the GPL was supplemented by a phone call for clarification about the charges listed or to inquire about the charges for direct cremation or immediate burial exclusive of the cost of a container or casket when those were not specifically stated on the GPL. However, we were unable to phone every establishment that clearly listed these charges but failed to clarify whether the crematory fee was included in the charge for direct cremation, and we have noted those instances in which it is unclear in our survey. We made note of the fact that a few establishments either stated on the GPL or told us in a phone conversation that they are willing to provide the family a simple graveside service with an immediate burial. Some others specifically state on the GPL that no service is included, but many make no mention of it one way or another, and we were unable to phone every establishment for clarification, so there may be some establishments willing to provide this service that are not identified in our survey.

Every funeral establishment is required by a Federal Trade Commission regulation, known as the Funeral Rule, to provide a GPL to anyone who asks for it in person and to provide specific price information to anyone who asks for it over the phone. So in addition to using this survey as a starting point for information about which establishments may be more cost effective than others, you may find it helpful to use it as a source of information with which to compare prices you can get over the phone from establishments not listed here.

General Remarks

Individual taste and priorities will influence the arrangements you choose. You may not want to use the specific services reported in this survey, but because it is not practical to list more than a sampling of services offered, we have chosen to list the two most basic options a funeral establishment may provide – direct cremation and immediate burial. Those options typically do not include any embalming, ceremonies, or viewings. Charges for these services vary widely among funeral providers in our area. The price and quality of the minimal cremation containers or caskets that funeral establishments typically provide for direct cremation or immediate burial vary significantly. Because of that, we elected to list in our survey the prices charged for direct cremation and immediate burial exclusive of any merchandise such as a casket or cremation container (the container a body is cremated in). It is hard to make meaningful price comparisons when those components are included.

Direct Cremation

The price quoted in this survey is the price listed on the GPL as “direct cremation with container provided by purchaser” (unless noted otherwise) meaning it does not include the container in which the body is cremated. This is the base price, to which the cost of any cremation container, whether it is purchased elsewhere or from the funeral establishment, must be added.

Unless otherwise stated, the direct cremation price quoted typically includes:

- transportation (within a reasonable distance) of the deceased to the mortuary and to the crematory;
- the costs (basic services) of the funeral director and staff;
- securing of all necessary permits and authorizations (except as noted below);
- the crematory fee; and
- return of the cremated remains to the family in a simple, temporary container either by mail or by having the family pick them up at the funeral establishment.

It does not include the use of facilities for viewing, either at the funeral home or at the crematory. It usually does not include the medical examiner’s fee for approval of cremation if the death occurs in DC ($75) or VA ($50), and the courier’s fee for obtaining it, particularly if the mortuary is located outside of DC. There is medical examiner’s fee for direct cremation when the death occurs in MD.

Some establishments do not include the crematory fee in their charge for a direct cremation. When this is the case and the crematory fee is stated elsewhere in the GPL or we obtained it by phone, we have added it and included it in the price we quote in our survey. If the GPL states the crematory fee is not included but does not quote the fee, we simply note that it is not included in the price we quote. When the GPL does not state whether the crematory fee is included or not and we did not have occasion to clarify the situation over the phone, we note that fact. Crematory fees vary from approximately $175 to more than $600 in our area.

Cremation containers can cost as much as $3900. However, funeral establishments are required to offer a relatively inexpensive "alternative container" for cremation. The least expensive one offered by any given establishment varies from a simple cardboard box or canvas or vinyl pouch offered for as little as $15, to a more elaborate one costing as much as $690. If an establishment does not offer one of the simplest, least expensive containers for cremation, you could purchase one elsewhere and use it if you prefer, as long as it conforms to the requirements of the crematory. In general, the establishments that charge higher prices for direct cremation are less likely to offer the least expensive types of cremation containers, but might if asked to do so. It pays to call and find out. An urn to store the cremated ashes (cremains) might add $45 to more than $4,250 to the overall cost.

Immediate Burial

The price quoted is the price listed on the GPL as "immediate burial with casket provided by purchaser." This is the base price, to which the cost of a casket, whether it is purchased elsewhere or from the funeral establishment, must be added.

Unless otherwise noted, the price listed for immediate burial includes:

- transfer of the deceased from the place of death to the mortuary and to the place of burial;
- the costs (basic services) of the funeral director and staff;
- securing of the necessary authorizations and permits; and
- minimal preparation of the body for purposes of identification only.

It does not include:

- embalming (which costs from $300 to $1740 and is usually not required by law although a funeral establishment may require it for visitations or viewings using its facilities);
- the cost of a cemetery plot, opening and closing the grave, a liner or vault, or any marker or monument.

It typically does not include any ceremony, visitation, or viewing. A few funeral homes may be willing to include a simple graveside service for a few family members with or without clergy (which otherwise might cost between $250 - $700 in addition to cemetery fees). We have noted this in a footnote when it was stated in the GPL or we happened to glean that information in a phone conversation, and there might be others willing to provide such a service if asked. But other funeral establishments state in their GPL that they provide transportation and burial at the convenience of the funeral home instead of at the convenience of the family, when immediate burial is chosen.

The price quoted typically includes little or no preparation of the body, and there are typically additional charges for washing, dressing and further preparation if desired. Some establishments simply wrap the body in a sheet for immediate burial. If the body is not embalmed, some funeral homes require the use of a body pouch at an additional cost. There may be other charges not explicitly mentioned in the GPL as being included or excluded.

The minimum casket offered by a funeral home is most often cloth-covered wood or fiberboard, costing between $500 and $850. But some offer a plain pine box for as little as $400 and others offer nothing less than a steel casket costing more than $1000. The majority of caskets are priced between $1500 and $8000, but they may range in price up to more than $100,000, as listed in one casket price list we reviewed. Details on casket prices are usually not found on the GPL itself but in a separate casket price list. The Funeral Rule requires funeral establishments to offer a prospective purchaser the casket price list as soon as caskets or alternative containers are discussed, before the caskets are actually shown. Families are free to purchase a casket elsewhere. Funeral providers are forbidden by the Funeral Rule to charge more for their services if a casket purchased elsewhere is used. Some funeral homes are willing to provide a less expensive casket than is listed on their casket price list when requested to do so. It pays to call and find out the particulars. Most cemeteries require a vault because it makes cemetery maintenance easier. Vaults range typically in price from $595 to $4000, but they may cost as much as $25,500.

Additional Considerations

In spite of the fact that the prices quoted do not include ceremonies, viewings, or visitations, as well as items such as cremation containers, urns, caskets, or other burial merchandise, there remains some variation in what is actually provided for the prices listed. You should call and find out the details for particular establishments you are interested in comparing. Some variation in price can also be attributed to overhead for buildings, staff, and amenities that may be valued by some purchasers, but perhaps not by those looking for simpler, more cost-effective arrangements.

You should also be aware that these prices do not include discretionary items such as multiple certified copies of death certificates ($25 each in DE, $24 each in MD, and typically $18 each in DC), obituaries, flowers, cards, and limousines. They do not include transportation over long distances, which generally is charged on a per-mile basis beyond the local area. There may be extra charges if a separate trip has to be made to obtain a death certificate. Many funeral establishments will hold a body for only a short period –as little as 6 to 24 hours – before adding charges for sheltering or refrigeration, which may run between $75 and $150 per day. Often such charges will be incurred if the body must be held over a weekend or holiday. There may be additional charges for services provided on Saturday or Sunday or late in the day. There may also be additional charges for cremation or burial if the body weighs over 300 pounds.

Many funeral establishments have a website at this time. We have included the web address in our survey when applicable. Many have photos of their establishments and staff and a few have extensive information including complete price lists and pictures of merchandise such as caskets, vaults, and urns. We recommend you visit the websites of any establishments you are considering prior to visiting the actual physical facility.

Muslim and Jewish individuals should check with a spiritual leader where you worship to see if there are funeral establishments or cemeteries that have special arrangements to serve your respective spiritual community. For example, the Jewish Funeral Practices Committee of Greater Washington contracts with local funeral homes to provide immediate burial including a plain pine box for burial, and use of facilities for members of the committee to perform ritual Jewish preparation of and sitting with the body. It is available to members of the more than 40 synagogues that currently participate. More information can be found at www.jewish-funerals.org.
